EASTER'S SIGNIFICANCE

What is termed civilization could not have been very old when men began to ask themselves if death could be the ultimate goal of life. It was many centuries ago that a man named Job summoned up the yearnings of the human soul in the pensive query: "If a man die shall he live again?" From remote antiquity men have tried to find the answer to that question. Scientists and philosophers, sophists and logicians have pointed intellectual telescopes toward the inscrutable fastness of futurity, only to be thwarted and set at naught by that blank wall which separates the seen from the unseen, the fathomed from the unfathomable.

Strange, is it not, that with the inevitability of death always before them men find it possible under ordinary circumstances to draw the curtains of their minds against it? Yet there are moments in the life of almost every man when "sad images of the shroud, and pall, and deathless darkness, and the narrow house" cause him "to inevitably resolve themselves at last into Job's poignant question.

That question has been answered. But Pinellas county last week received a bouquet from the state, according to the Clearwater Sun. When the audit of the school board's record was received from State Auditor Walworth at Tallahassee, it was accompanied by a letter of congratulations which stated that the operation of the the answer did not come from the scientists or the philosophers, the sophists or the logicians. It came from a Man in far-off Palestine more than nineteen hundred years ago, and He framed it in these simple but dynamic words: "Because I live ye shall live also."

On Sunday, in the churches of this city and throughout the civilized world and in isolated outposts of faith where civilization is yet unborn; on mountain tops and in grassy fields and even on an occasional street corner in a city slum, the efficiency of His answer—attested through the centuries by innumerable millions—will be reasserted and revived before a world of dying men.

It is not the whole of the Easter message. The church is not so naive as to hold that the resurrection of Christ automatically effectuated the immortality of human souls. But it points to the resurrection as the final and irrefutable evidence that the Man in Palestine was in very truth the incarnate Son of God, Who, by His sacrificial death upon the cross, flung open the gates of eternal life to those throughout the ages who believe in Him.

This, reduced to its simplest terms, is the Easter gospel. It is the answer of religion to man's impertinent question about life beyond the grave. It interprets and makes crystal clear the significance of His words, whose rising from the dead is memorialized on Easter: "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions . . . I go to prepare a place for you."

Safety Director Points Out Loss Of Life In State

5,711 Persons Killed During The Past 11 Years, He Says

Tampa, March 21.—It is with a great deal of surprise and chagrin, stated Ascher Frank, director of the Florida Safety Council, to observe that certain state, city and county officials are becoming aroused, at this time, over the "traffic fatality" situation that has been brought about by reckless, careless, and drunken drivers.

During the past 11 years, 5,711 persons have been killed in traffic accidents; if there were placed in pine boxes, and piled on top of each other, they would make a mountain 2½ miles high, or equal to the population of Bradenton and Bartow; yet that didn't arouse certain officials.

For more than 12 years the Florida Safety Council, through various civic clubs, schools and with the aid of the press, have been preaching the three "E's" of Safety—Education, Engineering, and Enforcement.

Through the cooperation of the civic clubs of the state, the American Legion, the P-T-A, and the press, we now have a state Driver's License Law, a Highway Patrol, state school buses, and our roads are being properly marked. It would make no difference if we had 10,000 traffic officers; it all comes down to the Individual Driver and Walker.

Continuing Frank stated, that during February of this year, 57 lives were snuffed out. A perusal of the cause of the deaths, is convincing proof that they were all unnecessarily killed.

Is there any reason to run into a train; what good reason is there for running into the rear of a truck in broad daylight, and why should any one try to take a curve at 80 miles an hour, and why should a driver get so glibly run into a pedestrian, and incidentally why should a pedestrian get drunk and walk into a car, at night.

At Ft. Pierce, a whole family, including a child of 3, and one five, were wiped out by running into a train.

Yes, all unavoidable, says the corner's jury, 57 lives needlessly wasted, and everyone would be alive today if they had practiced Common Sense.

It is no use to get excited, certainly we need a larger Highway Patrol and it is a shame to learn that Hillsborough County has issued only 62,000 Drivers' Licenses; with a registration of less than 45,000 vehicles; against Dade County, with a registration of over 80,000 vehicles, has only issued 22,000 Drivers' Licenses; less than ½ license to a vehicle.

There is nothing wrong with the Drivers' License Law, and certainly the fine men on the Patrol have already demonstrated that they are capable, and are doing a good job, if only we had more of them.

It is up to the enforcement officers of Florida, including the sheriffs, police officers and others who see that every person who drives a vehicle on the streets and highways of our state have a Drivers' License.

If this is done, the state will have enough revenue to not only equip 60 men, but 120 men; set up barracks, short wave stations, and truly bring about a Safety Consciousness of our people.

Reports show that more than 65 percent of traffic fatalities are occurring on our rural highways, and that 42 percent of our traffic fatalities are pedestrians in our streets. The best and only way to reduce traffic accidents and fatalities is to employ trained engineers, who make it their business to study the reduction of accidents through proper engineering.

proper lanes should be marked, traffic signals should be placed where needed and not at the suggestion of some politician; frequently a Flashing Beacon or Warning Beacon is sufficient. Remember, concluded Frank, that the State traffic is the traffic that is always moving; and with proper engineers, proper lighting, the right kind of enforcement, and with the individual cooperation, accidents will be reduced.

"Stay Thru May" Is Invitation To All Tourists In State

Power Company To Emblazon Slogan Through-out Florida

Nearly every winter visitor and resident in this section of Florida will see or hear the invitation "Stay Thru May" during the next six weeks as a result of advertising now planned by Florida Power during one of the most pleasant months of the year. Visitors will Light Company and other merchants of this area. Announcement of the campaign was made by P. Paul deMoya, utility manager. Newspaper advertising will, as usual, tell Florida winter visitors of the many advantages of prolonging their stay in this state urged not to risk the uncertainties of northern spring. Radio and billboards will also be utilized during the campaign period.

One hundred and thirty thousand automobile windshield stickers, printed in colors will be distributed from Florida Power & Light Company stores and offices throughout the state to all persons who wish them. Mr. deMoya said.

Figures compiled by the utility company for the past several years indicate a marked improvement of spring business since the "Stay Thru May" campaigns were first inaugurated. Indicating March sales at 100 per cent, April sales for the period 1932-36, before the campaigns were inaugurated, fell to 75 per cent. However, since the campaigns were inaugurated, the drop was only to 82 percent and in 1939 the decrease was only to 86 per cent. In May, during the pre-campaign period, the average was 61 per cent of March business but in the three campaign years, the average was up to 68 per cent and in 1939 it was up to 74 per cent. Mr. deMoya said he believed that this same improvement can be continued and in fact made even more noticeable to all business in South Florida if a concerted effort is made to cooperate in the community campaign.

"We are doing our visitors a favor when we sell them the advantages of our really lovely springtime and, of course, our community is doing itself a favor in keeping them here, too. Civic clubs and civic leaders can do this city a real service in promoting "Stay Thru May."

Senator Andrews Starts Campaign In Behalf Re-election

Opened Tuesday Night With State-Wide Broadcast

ORLANDO, March 21.—United States Senator Charles O. Andrews came back to Florida this week to inaugurate a brisk campaign for re-nomination to a full term in the Senate. His opening talk was made before the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce, Monday at noon, and was followed by conferences and informal appearances at a number of points in Orange County.

Tuesday night marked Senator Andrews' first state-wide radio broadcast of the campaign when he reviewed his record as a man, as a citizen of Florida and as a member of the United States Senate. He gave assurance to the citizens of Florida they could find assurance in his record of sound precedent for believing his full service would meet their full approval.

Declining to make promises, he told his listeners his achievements could be regarded as a gauge for measuring his future activity. He affirmed his stand for creation of the Everglades National Park, already authorized by Congress, and asserted he would continue to favor and work for ample production for producers of Florida fruit and vegetables. He also decried his work to correct tragic injustices in Florida would be continued with unabated vigor.

CRELLS VISIT

Mrs. A. L. Creel and children, of the Baptist farm section of West Palm Beach, attended services at the First Methodist church Sunday, and spent the afternoon visiting with former Palm Beach friends.

Future Greatness—

(continues from page 1) took real vision and firm courage to build Miami, Miami Beach and Coral Gables out of mangrove swamps and sandy wastelands of the East Coast of 30 years ago.

"It will take the same sort of vision, the same sort of stout courage to build the Florida of the future, which all sections of the state should unite in a common endeavor to create."

"Private industry has shown its faith in Florida's future. Our government has lagged far behind. It must be brought up to date, streamlined to keep pace with the great progress private industry has made," he said.

"Government must encourage and not interfere with business. We must have a stable and understanding government in Tallahassee in order that private industry may know what to expect."

"To do this Florida needs a leadership by men of the same calibre as the men who are leaders in our business world."

The Whitechair candidacy continues to be received with enthusiasm everywhere. All the leading political prognosticators place the DeLand candidate at the top of their lists.

Senior class of Pahokee high school will soon be presenting its annual play which is now in course of rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. Willis.

What Next? Here's Fish That Can Walk

Ever see a walking fish? Or a fish walking? No?

Well, not many other persons around here have, either. But the Chamber of Commerce has on display an unusually large and good specimen of the rare Sargassum walking fish, botanical name of which—if it is anything to you—is Histiogobio.

It didn't walk in to the Chamber of Commerce office through the chamber office, where it was placed at St. Lucie and taken to the chamber office, where it was prominently placed in a jar of formaldehyde. Its spirit had already passed on to wherever fish spirits are supposed to go.

Sargassum walking fish, according to the dictionary, occur in tropical waters of the Atlantic, particularly where there are growths of sargassum weed. Its shape and color make it practically invisible in such growth, nature's means of affording it protection from its enemies (and maybe bird collectors).

It clings about in frog-like manner with the help of arm-like pectoral and ventral fins. The normal length is about six inches. This one on display at the Chamber of Commerce is 10 inches long.

Few of them have ever been caught hereabouts, and probably none so large.—P. Pierce News-Tribune.
